

The Library

A queer, mysterious and astounding incident took place in the only library of a small peaceful village.

It was a typical Tuesday when most of the children in the village went to the library after school. Most of them were trying to find books they needed either for classes or for entertainment. Some were reading happily on the sofa while a few were doing their work quietly. The library was extremely quiet, so quiet that one could simply hear the sound of people breathing. Suddenly, a girl called Hannah broke the silence and cried out, "Hey, Miley, sorry I'm late." The girl whom Hannah was referring to was Miley, who looked unusually surprised but calm. Hannah walked up to Miley and patted her gently on the arm, but Miley made no response, looking as if she was spellbound and not even making the slightest move or utter the faintest sound. Miley just stationed at the same spot for a long time, and suddenly she collapsed. The next thing Hannah saw, Miley started wriggling on the floor, screaming like being cursed, and then seconds later, fainted.

Everyone gasped with eyes fixed upon her. No one knew what had happened or what would happen to this poor girl. They quickly dialed 911 for help and some tried to give her first aid. Suddenly, Miley stood up, looking straight ahead with a pair of dull glassy eyes, and began to speak in an awfully deep creepy voice, "...I was killed without any reasons, but just being killed to satisfy the murderer. How poor I am.... I was kind once, but what I now have left is nothing but HATRED! I have therefore decided to put another girl to death to revenge. Isn't this a great idea?!?" Miley finished her eerie speech with a wicked cruel smile. There was a short moment of silence. Hannah was flabbergasted, "Oh no....Oh dear...is this the real Miley? It all seems so weird and awfully scary ..."

Everyone was dumbfounded, including the children, the librarian and the hospital squad who had just made it in time to witness the entire strange incident. The adults were quite sure that a ghost spirit was inside Miley's soul, so they quickly ushered the children away because what was to happen later on might frighten them. However, everything was too late.

That now unfamiliar Miley flashed a steely smile and continued, "I'm gonna put that girl to death...that girl...Miley Jonas." Hannah was shocked and exclaimed, "...but ....but...that's YOU!" At that, Miley took a knife from her pocket and stabbed herself before someone was quick enough to shout 'NO' or simply to stop her.

Poor Miley had instantly killed herself.

The sad and horrific tale got through the small village in no time. Later on, some villagers said that a devilish ghost had sailed into Miley's soul, doing that killing for plain pleasure. However, it was really baffling as to how Miley could have had a knife in her pocket and how she had ever got a chance to set the whole drama up, to not really commit suicide, but to subconsciously end her own life?

Everything had happened too fast that everyone at the scene was too confused and gobsmacked to stop the tragedy.

What do you think?